Fiona Davies
Chief Officer

Argyll and Bute published its first Caring Together Strategy in 2018 in response to the Carers (Scotland) Act 2016.

This legislation supported how we work with unpaid carers in Argyll and Bute and provided an opportunity for us to focus and invest in them.

Scotland’s National Carers Strategy was delivered on the 21 December 2022 and was timely given the work of unpaid carers in supporting the safety and wellbeing of those being cared for during the Covid-19 pandemic.

With our partners who support unpaid carers in Argyll & Bute we have reviewed our own strategy in this context, reflecting the national strategy, our collective learning since 2018 and aspirations in supporting and acknowledging the role of unpaid carers, especially as a vital part of care in our remote and rural geography.

Carers’ Impacts

While we have moved on in our formal support with a focus on implementing the Act and providing support to young carers, ensuring that carers’ impacts are considered within all strategy there is much to develop.

We have developed our representation on our Integration Joint Board and within planning structures to ensure we have the active voice of carers and opportunity for co-production throughout our planning process and in partnership across Argyll and Bute.

I’d like to note our two integration joint board members, Kirstie Reid and John Stevens whose active involvement nationally and locally has been advantageous.

John Stevens sadly died earlier this year. He used both his experience and a measured approach to ensure that we consider carers’ impacts across all our work. His skills and kindness will be missed but his approach will stay with us.

Support

We will continue to raise awareness of support for carer’s of all ages and we thank the carer’s organisations, Education and the 60 young carers who supported our ability to deliver this refreshed strategy to the benefit of unpaid carers who are known to us and those we do not yet know.

Being a carer can be both rewarding and exhausting but their role in our community is a key part of how we maintain a compassionate and caring society and provide dignity and respect to those who are vulnerable.

I am delighted to renew our strategic commitment and look forward to developing Argyll & Bute’s continued support for carers.

Carers Strategy - Introduction

This strategy is for Adult and Young Carers

Carers (Scotland) Act 2016 & National Carer Strategy 2022

What is a strategy?

It is a plan which details work that we will do to support Unpaid Carers. It explains how we plan to do this and how we will monitor the commitments we make in it.

Why are we writing this strategy?

The Carers (Scotland) Act 2016 informs the Health and Social Care Partnership of the right of Carers and the duties we must provide to anyone looking after a relative or a friend who would struggle without their help.

It sets out our Vision for supporting Unpaid Carers

The Act refers to anyone caring for a loved one as an Unpaid Carer. In this strategy we will refer to an Unpaid Carer as a Carer as this is what Carers told us they prefer

What do we mean by the Health and Social Care Partnership (HSCP?)

Argyll and Bute HSCP means Health and Social Care services in Argyll and Bute working together.

The Health and Social Care Partnership works with colleagues and partners from a broad range of Independent and Third Sector organisations.

To support Carers in Argyll & Bute, some services have been commissioned and are provided by Carer Centres and other organisations

Who is this Strategy For?

The Argyll & Bute Health and Social Care Partnership has a duty under the Carers (Scotland) Act 2016, to provide supports and services for unpaid Carers, we do this by working together with colleagues, partners and Unpaid Carers.

This strategy is for anyone who cares for a friend or family member living within Argyll and Bute.

The Carers (Scotland) Act 2016 came into effect on 1 April 2018 and extended and enhanced the rights of carers to help improve their health and wellbeing, so that they can continue to care, if they so wish, whilst having a life alongside caring.

Following previous Carer Strategies implemented by UK Government and Scottish Government, the refreshed National Carer Strategy was published 21st December 2022 and declared that Scotland should be a place where all carers are recognised and valued for the contribution they make and where they are enabled to provide the right support for the people they care for while living full, rounded lives.

Getting it Right

Getting it Right for Young Carers: The principles and values embedded in the Getting it Right For Every Child approach apply for young carers. Getting it Right For Every Child is Scotland's approach to promoting and improving the wellbeing of every child, including those who hold a caring role.

The Promise: The Promise implementation plan sets out our actions and commitments to Keep the Promise for care experienced children, young people, and their families. It contributes to our ambition for every child in Scotland to grow up loved, safe and respected so that they realise their full potential.

One of the key principles is "Family" it requires families to be kept together and are offered support together, nurtured as a family unit and are helped to overcome difficulties.

Within our strategy we will share information about Local and National strategies that are in place within Argyll & Bute that also support Carers.

Carers Living in Argyll & Bute

The Impact of Caring

Who is a Carer?

A carer provides care and support to: family members, partners, friends, or neighbours affected by physical or mental illness, disability, frailty or an addiction.

Young Carers across Argyll & Bute are now supported from the age of 5 years in all areas of Argyll and Bute when caring responsibilities may start.

Carers may care intensively for a long period of time or may care for shorter periods and do not need to be living with the person they are caring for, to be recognised as a Carer.

For the purposes of this strategy, Adult Carers and Young Carers will be referred to as 'Carers'.

Since the introduction of the Carers (Scotland) Act 2016 we have recorded a steady growth in the number of Carers accessing information and being supported.

Argyll and Bute Health and Social Care Partnership recognises, values and respects the roles that Carers have, and are aware of the impact the caring role can have on so many parts of a Carers own life. We commit to continuing to raising awareness of the support available, promoting the benefits of seeking information and support early.

As many as 12,000 people aged 16+ provide unpaid care in Argyll and Bute with the highest proportion estimated to be residing in Bute, Cowal, and Kintyre (Estimated using Scottish Health Survey results and population estimates) [2].

A&B Carer Census Data 2022

Caring for someone can be bring feelings of wellbeing, fulfilment, and compassion, however Carers in Argyll and Bute also shared that it can be lonely, exhausting, and at times very frightening.

Carers told us the impact can be felt financially, within education, employment, personal finances, social life, relationships, and their mental and physical wellbeing.

Many carers still do not seek support that is available to them and struggle alone, we know from data that Carers caring for someone with an alcohol or drug addiction do not readily seek our support or see themselves as carers.

Every Carer will have a different caring journey, only they will know they true impact it has on them.

The National Strategy states that 29% of Carers in the most deprived areas care for 35hrs or more each week – more than double the level in the least deprived areas.

Scottish Government estimates that there are 696,000 Carers in Scotland. 28,000 are Young Carers under the age of 18 years.

Within our commitments we aim to provide increased support to Carers supporting someone with a drug or alcohol addiction, by working with colleagues and partners alongside Drug and Alcohol Addiction Partnership Teams.

I can't concentrate

A Young Carer Statement, helps young people with caring responsibilities to identify and highlight their personal goals and any support that they may require as a young carer, as well as record who is responsible for providing that support.

In Argyll & Bute, our online Young Carers Statement provides Young Carers throughout Argyll & Bute with opportunities to talk to a trusted adult about their caring role, what they do, how it impacts on them and the individual supports they need.

Carers (Scotland) Act 2016 Jargon Buster for Young Carers created by Young Scot is an excellent resource to understand the Carers (Scotland) Act 2016.

Young carers love the person they care for and quite often do not realise they are a Young Carer, they develop good organisational skills, able to manage medication, time and budgets, are resourceful and can often appear more mature than their peers.

Reality

Young Carers should be seen as Children and Young People first, have opportunities to an education, achieve, have fun, develop, and enjoy their childhood. However, in reality, caring roles can lead to anxiety and worry, impact on mental health, social isolation, reduced educational attainment, lost days in education, reduced access to activities and fun, as well as bullying and stigma.

In Argyll & Bute we want to ensure that all Young Carers can access our Young Carers Statement and support that is meaningful to them, this will help to ensure opportunities for short breaks, and caring roles are appropriate and not overwhelming.

By working with our colleagues in Education and the Health and Social Care Partnership, we commit to raising awareness of Young Carers, how to identify and offer support, how caring can impact Young Carers, as well as raising awareness amongst our young people.

Covid Impact

The impact the COVID-19 pandemic had on the mental health and wellbeing of Young Carers should not be underestimated. Pandemic restrictions and school closures led to children with caring responsibilities providing increased levels of care, having less opportunities to access breaks from caring and being isolated from their peers. Some Young Carers still provide higher levels of support to their loved ones than prior to the Covid-19 Pandemic.

We recognise that Scottish Government will be implementing Children's Rights within Scotland during the period of this strategy and that work to support this within Argyll & Bute is currently ongoing. Further details regarding Children's Rights in Argyll & Bute will be available on the Argyll & Bute website over the coming months, however reference can be found on the Scottish Government website.

At the time of writing this strategy the Youth Voice group for children and young people in Argyll & Bute has begun in its infancy and will enable children and young people to have a voice not only on Children's Rights in Argyll & Bute, but inform on challenges that affect them, and ensure children and young people are able to contribute to and participate in consultation and implementation of change.

Where did we start when refreshing the current strategy?

What did we do and how did we do it?

What is important to you in your caring role?

What is working well?

What could make your day difficult?

How could difficult times be improved?

If you don't access support what would help?

The National Carers Strategy, was published on the 21st December 2022.

In February and March 2023 we reviewed the National Strategy and met with Carer partners to discuss how this would reflect within our Strategy.

The National Strategy highlighted five focus areas, these will be embedded in our Caring Together Strategy and our commitments.

In April and May 2023 we worked together with Carer Organisations to produce and share a consultation paper to gather feedback from Carers.

Focus was intentionally on the support in place, what currently worked well, and how this could be improved. 198 Carers responded and we appreciate the time taken in providing this feedback. (Engagement Framework

2023 (argyll-bute.gov.uk)

We also:

- Consulted Carers in person;
- Visited five Carer Centres where we held focus groups. 65 Adult Carers attended.
- 60 Young Carers provided their feedback including, at the annual Scottish Young Carers Festival hosted by Carers Trust Scotland.

Colleagues in the Health and Social Care Partnership were also approached for their feedback as colleagues and as Carers in a Consultation Survey.

Each individual submission from the Carers Consultation was reviewed.

This gave us insight into Carer data in Argyll & Bute which helped inform on services for Carers. We were able to gather lots of information from open questions and took time to read and review all 198 replies.

Where did we start when refreshing the current strategy, what did we do and how did we do it?

Carers Organisations, Argyll & Bute Health & Social Care Partnership and an Integrated Joint Board Carer Representative, were involved in reviewing the 198 responses to five questions asked in the consultation.

Action plans of support for all 198 Individual carers were created.

We reviewed the recurring themes that stood out in the action planning process, alongside information gathered from in person sessions with 135 Adult and Young Carers.

We commit to continuing practices of partnership working with Carers, organisations and local communities across Argyll and Bute.

The Carers Act Implementation Group meets every six weeks and is made up of members of the Health and Social Care Partnership, Carers Organisations, and the Carer Rep from the IJB.

Through this group actions identified within the strategy will be regularly discussed, reviewed, and monitored. The group provides a setting to discuss issues and concerns as well as, new ideas and solutions with all partners. This Strategy is one of many that make up A&B

We commit to continuing to support organisations in Argyll & Bute providing support to Carers in many different ways.

Short Break statement

A break from Caring – Time to be Care Free

There is a duty to ensure the Health and Social Care Partnership provide, prepare, and publish a statement which sets out information on short break provision available to local carers and cared for persons.

Short break Statement Argyll & Bute

Our Commitment in this strategy is to work with our Carer partners to refresh and update the current statement.

How long a Carer has been providing care A&B (%)

Carer Census data 2022

A break enables carers to have sufficient and regular periods away from their caring routines or responsibilities.

Personalised, flexible short breaks can make a real difference for carers offering opportunities to relax, helping to sustain caring relationships, enabling carers to have time to themselves.

Breaks can be for short or for extended periods. Take place during the day or overnight; a break from home for the cared for person; support the Carer to have valuable time for themselves; or replacement care whilst a Carer has a break.

Adult Carer Support Plans and Young Carers Statements provide opportunities to discuss Carer supports and breaks from caring.

A break will either be put in place by Carer Organisations or discussed with the Health and Social Care Partnership in line with the eligibility criteria and established procedures.

Carers can often feel guilty in leaving their cared for person, which may mean Carers find it difficult to ask for a break.

However providing a break from caring enables Carers to take time to themselves, promotes physical, mental and emotional wellbeing.

Carers have told us of positive experiences, fun, and laughter they have when spending time with other Carers in similar situations, through the range of groups and activities Carers Organisations provide.

Carers do not always share how they feel with friends or family. One Carer stated that she felt “it was something I have to get on with, I don't want to sound like a broken record”.

Another carer mentioned how she had “lost touch with my friends due to looking after my husband, I felt so lonely until I attended a group at a Carer Centre and met new friends”. Both Carers attended groups at their local Carer Organisation, and as many other Carers shared with us, it was their lifeline to support and peer relationships.

Group and Peer support is not what every Carer will want or need, but knowing it is there can mean a warm welcome for a time when it may be needed. We will ensure communication about activities are shared widely and known about across the Health and Social Care Partnership.

G cares for her son A who has developmental delay, behavioural issues, epilepsy and is being assessed for ADHD.

A presents behaviour which could be disruptive, aggressive, controlling, destructive, and verbally abusive. G and her ex-partner were struggling due to the pressures and exhaustion of their caring for A which took a toll on their relationship.

G often needed to take more time away from work as the school could not cope with behaviours A was presenting. A crisis meeting was held at the Carers centre involving social work and community contacts. G was tearful and stated she felt hopeless.

Social worker X was able to explain options available to G and focus on the main issues affecting G and her son A. After discussion, it was felt that using Self Directed Support, option 1, to pay her daughter, as a personal assistant would enable G to return to work and provide A with continuity in pre and after school care.

G felt listened to, valued, and could see a way forward. In the long term, community contacts will look for a

Y helps to care for her sibling who has ADHD and mental health issues. The school that Y attends discussed the caring role Y has and shared the information about the local Carers Centre. With Y's consent, a referral was made to the Carer Centre.

The Young Carer support worker initially met with Y in school and together they completed a Young Carers Statement. The Young Carers Statement identified the nature of Y's caring role and the impact it was having on her.

Home life was becoming increasingly hard, and it was highlighted that Y would benefit from accessing emotional support and having regular 'breaks' away from her caring role. As a result of the Young Carer Statement, weekly 1-to-1 support with a Young Carer worker was started in the school. Information was also provided to Y about the groups that the Carer Centre provided and the benefits of meeting with other young Carers.

suitable PA. The social worker X agreed to contact the school and arrange a meeting to discuss the issues at school and at home.

After the meeting, G said she was feeling much more supported and could see things improving for her and her family. G said she was worried the meeting would be a waste of time but after the meeting, she felt much happier about things.

Quote from G

“I no longer feel on my own and meeting altogether at the carers centre was a huge relief, I feel confident that things will now change for A and my family. Meeting with X from social work face to face really helped, and also I could understand how this day package will fit with me and my family's needs. I cannot wait to get back to work and get me time away, as this helps me cope with my caring role and provide for my family. Many thanks to all concerned.”

Due to the nature of the caring role, Y was involved in a referral being made to the local Children and Families social work team and a child-planning meeting was established.

Y decided to join the youth group sessions provided by the Carer Centre and went on to enjoy day trips and residential breaks, which allowed her the time away from their caring role to have fun with other young Carers.

The Young Carer Statement, the Child plan and the support from the Carer Centre enabled Y to meet new people and try new things.

On Young Carers Action Day, Y spoke to the class about what her role as a Young Carer was like. Over the six months following the referral to the Carer Centre and a Young Carer Statement being completed Y gained enough confidence to become a 'Young Carer Ambassador' and promotes the support and services that are available.

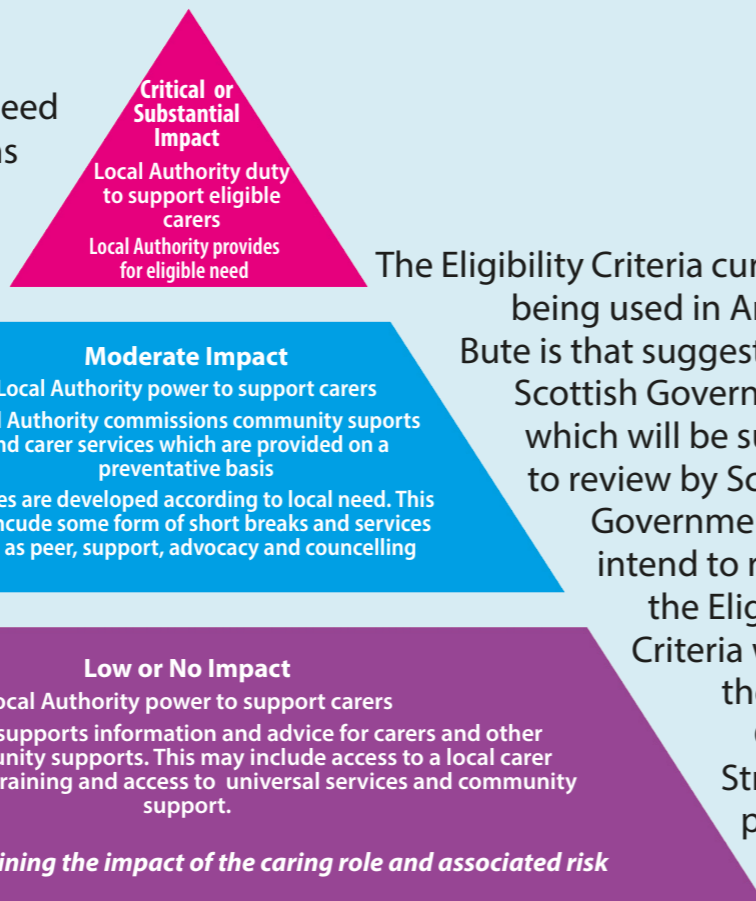

Carer Centres are proactive in accessing funding from Shared Care Scotland to support Carer breaks. The funds are split into four programmes; Better Breaks, Creative Breaks, Time to Live micro-grants, and Take a break Scotland which provide direct grants to carers of disabled children and young people to support personalised short breaks.

What is Self-directed Support?

SELF-DIRECTED SUPPORT is about giving choice and control over how support services are designed and ensure you receive the support that meets your needs. It enables people to choose how their support is provided by giving control over the money spent on support. The Carers Act makes it clear that Carers must be involved in any assessments for Self Directed Support options and decision-making for the supported person where appropriate.

Our consultation highlighted Carers need a greater understanding of the options available to them and the cared for person. Having more flexibility to how breaks are provided could mean a more relaxed break for a Carer. Our commitment is to increase Carer awareness of the four Self Directed Support options, and work closer together in discussing creative breaks with Carers and colleagues within the Health and Social Care Partnership.

The Eligibility Criteria currently being used in Argyll & Bute is that suggested by Scottish Government, which will be subject to review by Scottish Government. We intend to review the Eligibility Criteria within the next Carers Strategy period.

Self-directed Support

THE NATIONAL CARERS STRATEGY ACTION PLAN, included that, "In addition to updating the SDS Statutory Guidance, they will continue to work with and through delivery partners, including Local Authorities, to support and improve delivery of Self Directed Support consistently throughout Scotland and to support national conversations promoting improvement, early intervention, capacity-building, innovation and good practice".

Dementia Strategy & Training Resources for Families

dementia-scotland-everyones-story.pdf (www.gov.scot)

The Argyll & Bute Enhanced Community Dementia Service provides specialist assessment, diagnosis and post diagnostic support for people referred with suspected dementia.

The service aims to be responsive to need using a person-centred approach that aligns to the Standards of Care for Dementia in Scotland. This is aimed to empower people with dementia and their carers to make informed decisions about their future care to maximise quality of life.

The service promotes and supports carer education as being one of the most effective ways to help ensure optimum care for those with dementia.

Learning about the disease and knowing what to expect can help carers feel more in control and better able to plan ahead.

As part of this strategy we aim to help promote the awareness of support the service promotes and supports carer education as being one of the most effective ways to help ensure optimum care for those with dementia.

Learning about the disease and knowing what to expect can help carers feel more in control and better able to plan ahead.

As part of this strategy we aim to help promote the awareness of support available to anyone caring for a loved one and create a focus group where Carers' voices can be heard.

Parent carers provide support to their children, as a result of an additional support need, disability, mental health or substance use.

Parent carers are often less recognised as Carers, as parents often see themselves as a Parent first, before the additional caring elements they provide, and can be unaware of support that is available for them.

We commit to raising awareness of supports for Parent Carers, where they can access opportunities to share concerns they have about their child, family relationships, education, finances, employment, and long term future planning.

Together with colleagues in Education the Health and Social Care Partnership we aim to increase the support Parent Carers and Families can access.

Working with Parent Carers we aim to learn and identify how to best provide support and will continue this in our strategy.

Parents told us during our consultation about the 'constant fight' they have to have to 'access services' for their children, be 'involved in decision making' and recognised as an 'equal' when meeting with professional bodies.

Within Argyll & Bute, Parent Carers have started to form their own Charities which can provide support in ways that work best for them. Community led, created by them, working for them, used by them.

Our commitment is to help support Parents and Peer groups on this journey and work alongside them, to add to local resources and highlight National resources so that Parents feel included, supported, and knowledgeable about their rights and services.

Carer Centres have offices in; Dunoon, Helensburgh, Lochgilphead and Oban and have outreach Carer Support in various locations including Campbeltown, Isles of Islay, Tiree, Mull, Coll, Bute and Jura.

When a Carer is referred or self refers, a local Carers Organisation will contact the Carer and offer an Adult Carer Support plan or Young Carer Statement. Carers Organisations are highly skilled and knowledgeable in providing support to Carers in their localities.

Carers needs can be vastly different, as a result we acknowledge the diverse range of skills, knowledge, and information Carers Organisations need to be aware of to support Carers.

We commit to continuing to support continuous development, new learning, training, and sharing of opportunities and activities within the Health and Social Care Partnership to our partners and colleagues.

Mental Health & Emotional wellbeing

Carers shared that at times Caring can be overwhelming and impact on their emotional and mental health.

The 123 out of 198 Carers who replied to the consultation told us how their mental health was impacted due to their caring role.

Carers talked about the guilt they feel, the emotional abuse they receive, the fear of doing something wrong or forgetting something, Carers desperate to off-load. Carer Centre staff provide a fantastic resource for carers where they can share fears, worries, pressures about their caring role.

We commit to increasing the services and resources Carers Organisations can offer to Carers, such as; Silver Cloud and Distressed Brief Intervention.

To assist Carers Organisations we will provide opportunities for training and learning to further knowledge and resources for Carers.

We will provide links to national resources such as; Sleep Scotland and One Parent Families for Carers.

Sleep Scotland is the UK's oldest sleep charity and leading provider of sleep support, training and resources

Technology Enabled Care

Carers shared Technology equipment extremely beneficial.

Within Argyll & Bute there are currently 2200 homes using Telecare devices. Within our strategy, we aim to promote the benefits of equipment and raise awareness of how technology can provide reassurance and assistance to carers.

Further information can be found at www.argyll-bute.gov.uk/tec

E-Learning - Building resilience

Jointly - Care co-ordination app

Within the Digital resource we have links to each Carer Centre within Argyll and Bute.

Money related worries

The cost of living crisis has affected us all, the Carers Census 2022 reports 38% of Carers were impacted financially.

Through the Carers Consultation we have heard from Carers advising of the financial worries and concerns they face.

We want to ensure Carers know how to access benefit checks, financial advice and information, and will work with colleagues in a range of services such as; Bute Advice, the Citizens Advice Bureau and AliEnergy to reach Carers in Argyll & Bute.

Further information and how to access support can be found on the Argyll & Bute website.

Emergency & Future Planning

For when the unexpected happens

Emergency & Future Planning

For when the unexpected happens

The Carers (Scotland) Act 2016 states Adult Carer Support Plans and Young Carers Statements should ask about Future and Emergency care planning. The Carer may wish to make a future plan, and can be supported in identifying their needs and personal outcomes for this through discussion. Emergency planning includes planning for events such as the carer not being able to care due to illness or medical appointments.

Our commitment in this strategy is to review the current documentation with Carers and Carer Partners whilst looking to include information about anticipatory care planning processes.

Diagnosis of Terminal illness

When a Carer is supporting someone with a Terminal Illness diagnosis, the Health and Social Care Partnership has clear timescales that have to be met.

At this time a light touch Adult Carer Support Plan or Young Carers Statement, must be offered and actioned following the timescale guidelines.

Data extracted from the 2022 Carer Census, highlighted that a relatively small number of Carers being supported with these plans versus those with a Terminal Illness diagnosis.

We commit to increasing Carer awareness of the support available during this time, and continue to work closely with Health and Social Care Partners promoting the guidance of the Carers (Scotland) Act 2016

Involving Carers in Hospital Discharge

Section 28 within the Carers (Scotland) Act 2016, requires the Health and Social Care Partnership to involve the Carer before a cared-for person is discharged from hospital.

It must do so by taking steps it considers appropriate to: inform the carer as soon as reasonably practicable of the intention to discharge the cared-for person; and invite the views of Carers about the discharge; and taking account, 'so far as it is reasonable and practicable to do so', of any views given by the Carer in making decisions relating to discharge of the cared-for person.

This duty only applies where:

- The Carer of the cared-for person can be identified 'without delay'; and

- Where it appears to the Health and Social Care Partnership that the cared-for person is likely to require care following discharge.

Carers during the consultation shared that they are not always fully involved, and at times can feel pressure to support a discharge when they do not feel fully prepared or are able to provide the care needed for the person.

We commit in this strategy to increasing the resources and supporting the discharge planning process to ensure Carers are involved and included in discussions.

Bereavement support

The death of a loved one is a traumatic time. For friends and family this time can bring many emotions.

Resources are in place within Carer Centres to support a Carer for 13 months after the passing of a loved one, recognising the isolation a Carer may experience.

Carers Centres are experienced and knowledgeable in the support a Carer may need after a loved one has passed away.

Learning Together

Our Strategy is about ensuring we listen and learn. Promote the positive support of Carers experience and review areas that Carers told us do not work so well.

We commit to developing four Focus groups with Carers and, Health and Social Care Partnership colleagues – Dementia support, Drugs and Alcohol, Parent Carer, and Young Carers.

Carers spoke about the good relationships they had with Social Work teams but noted the anxieties they had at the beginning. They highlighted the need to share good news stories about the impact Care at Home, Home support and Health teams have in helping to support their friends and relatives, which can ease the pressure on their caring role.

Care Opinion is an online resource where Carers can share experiences of health or care services, 'At Care Opinion we make it safe and simple to share your story online and see other people's stories too.

You can see how stories are leading to change.'

We commit to promoting Care Opinion and raising the awareness of this resource

Care Opinion
What's your story?

Learning Together

Health and Social Care Partnership and Education

In the last strategy we committed to creating and sharing our Guidance document. This piece of work has been created in partnership with Carer Organisations, however as information on short breaks needs further development, this has not been fully circulated across the partnership.

Sharing of information, our duties and the Carers (Scotland) Act 2016, however have been ongoing throughout the Health and Social Care Partnership and Education.

We commit to embedding guidance, formalising and developing our training plan with Carer Organisations within this strategy.

Website - a resource for everyone

Carer's advised us, that often issues arise from not knowing where to go for advice, information and support, and for others too much information can be overwhelming. We commit to refreshing and updating our website, raising awareness of Carers, making it accessible, interesting and Carer friendly.

We aim to develop this resource in co-production with Carers, Health and Social Care Partnership colleagues, Carer organisations and Education.

Learning Together
